

Heather Anderson-Ross has been involved with children and families for over 25 years. Her interests and experience include working with children with special needs, child and adult literacy, and has trained adults on issues related to early literacy and parenting. She worked for four years as an Early Literacy Specialist and is presently Supervisor of Community and Prevention Services at Macaulay Child Development Centre. Heather holds a Master's Degree in Education (OISE) and an ECE diploma.